The work involved kinetic investigation of esterification reaction involving ethanol and butyric acid over acid ion-exchange resin (amberlyst-15). The catalytic reactions were carried out in an isothermal well stirred batch reactor using excess of alcohol to prevent reverse reaction. Effect of parameters such as temperature (323-353 K), Catalyst loading (0-6 gm.), alcohol to acid ratio, M (2-4.5) and amount of molecular sieves added (0-6 gm.). At optimized parameters, a maximum conversion of 92.86% in 180 minutes. Conversion increased with catalyst and temperature increase.
